

AEROFLOT CARGO GOES BUST

AEROFLOT Cargo has become bankrupt. Rumours that the carrier was struggling have been working their way around the industry for some time.

Freighter services of the Russian carrier will continue for a short time but will stop soon after (an exact timeframe is not yet known). After that, operations will be systematically rolled back into its parent company – Aeroflot. Those freighters will then re-enter Aeroflot service in March 2010.

All of top management are to leave the company, but how many of the rest of the staff will be taken into Aeroflot with the remaining operations is as yet unclear.
